THE CHARMERS OF HINDOOSTAN.

Many of these Hindoo jugglers who live in the silence of the pagoda perform feats far surpassing the prestid-igitations of Robert Houdin, and there are many others who produce the most curious phenomena in magnetism and cataplexy upon the first objects that come across their way, that I have often wondered whether the brahmins with their occult sciences have not made great discoveries in the questions which have recently been agitated in Europe.

On one occasion while I and others were in a cafe with Sir Maxwell, he ordered his dobochoy to introduce the charmer. In a few moments a lean Hindoo, a most naked, with an assetic face and bronzed color entered. Around his neck, arms, thighs, and body were coiled serpents of different sizes. After saluting us, he said, "God be with you,

I am Chibb-Chondor, son of Chibb-

Gombah-Maya."

"We desire to see what you can do," said our host.

"I obey the orders of Siva, who has sent me here," replied the fakir, squatting down upon one of the marble slabs.

"The serpents raised their heads and hissed, but without showing any anger.

Then taking a small pipe, attached to a wick in his hair, he produced scarcely audible sounds imitating the tail-pipes, a bird that feeds upon bruised coconuts. Here the serpents uncoiled themselves, and one after another glided to the floor. As soon as they touched the ground they raised about one-third of their bodies, and began to keep time to their master's music. Suddenly the fakir dropped his instrument and made several passes with his hands over the serpents, of whom there were about ten.

All of the most deadly cobra species of India. His eye assumed a strange expression. We all felt an undefinable anxiety, and sought to turn away our gaze from him. At this moment a small shoora, whose business was to hand fire in a small brazier for lighting cigars, yielded to his influence, lay down, and fell asleep. Five minutes passed thus, and we felt that if the manipulations were to continue a few seconds more, we should all fall asleep. Chondor then rose, and making two more passes over the shoora, said to it: "Give the commander some fire." The young serpent rose, and without tottering, came and offered fire to its master. It was pinched, pulled about, till there was no doubt of its being actually asleep. Nor would it move from Sir Maxwell's side till ordered to do so by the fakir.

We then examined the other cobras.

Paralyzed by magnetic influence, they lay at full length on the ground. On taking them up we found them as stiff as sticks. They were in a state of complete cataplexy. The fakir then awakened them, and they then returned and again coiled themselves round his body.

On asking us if he could make us feel his influence, he made a few passes over our legs, and instantly we lost the use of these limbs; we could not leave our seats. He then released us as easily as he had paralyzed us.

Chibb-Chondor closed his stance by experimenting upon inanimate objects.

By mere passes with his hands in the direction of the object to be acted upon, and, without leaving his seat, he paled and extinguished lights in the furthest parts of the room, moved the furniture, including the divans upon which we

A GREAT PIGEON ROOST.

The Southland (Mo.) Rustic says:

Pigeons have come into this part of the country by millions. Of evenings the sky is darkened with them in the neighborhood of Dr. Dodson's on the Anglaize. They have made Dodson's farm their headquarters, and at night the trees and underbrush are loaded down with multitudes. As this roost is but a short distance from our house, we have had ample opportunity to watch their maneuvers and to hear the incessant noise they make. A little before sundown large armies of pigeons are seen coming from different points of the compass, but each army passes onward as if they intended to change their roosting-place. After a while they return and settle on the trees around the roost, not many of them nearer than a mile of the place. They make flights from these trees, and the sound of their wings is like that of a great storm. There is a constant roaring in the air as myriads of the birds fly to and fro. About dark they fly toward the roost and for a long time they fly around and around, and have the appearance of bees swarming, although the vast number and the tornado-like roaring they make surpasses anything in the power of man to describe.

After a while they alight on the trees and bushes, and the limbs are bent downward, often are broken off.

"The pigeons keep up a constant chattering, which can be heard for miles away. They are never still during the night. So far as sleep is concerned, such a thing is out of the question with a pigeon. They are disturbed by themselves—such throngs assemble in a spot that none can be still for a moment and the incessant discharging of dreams among them causes them to change their location almost constantly.

This roost is visited every night by crowds of men, some with guns and others with poles, which they use in thrush-ing down the pigeons that happen to be at the point struck. Hundreds are killed every night, but when light appears the vast armies again go forth with apparently as much vigor as ever. Imagine millions upon millions of these birds all on the wing at the same time, over a score of country not more than two miles square, and a faint idea of the noise they make may be obtained.

But no one can ever fully imagine what a pigeon roost is, or how much noise they make until one is seen and heard.

"There is an abundance of mast here now, and we suppose the pigeons will remain here until it is all gone. One curious circumstance is that in the neighborhood of this pigeon roost we never see a pigeon from the time they leave of mornings until they return of evenings. They are not eating the mast here at all, but somewhere they are all feasting luxuriously, for they are all fat."

The cultivation of Mocha coffee at Cayenne has been practically abandoned during the past few years. Thousands of coffee trees, averaging sixteen feet in height, still flourish in the forests of the inhabitable part of the colony, and although rich in foliage, no longer bear blossoms.

There are 118 life-saving stations of our coast from Maine to Florida, thirty on the lakes, and eight on the Pacific, employing 1,100 men. The coasts of JOHN HANCOCK.

One night in April, 1775, lights were placed in the belfry of the Old North Church, in Boston, signaling to the main shore the intention of General Gage, the British commander, to march on Concord and seize the Colonial munitions there. As two lights flamed across the water signifying that the enemy would cross and not march by the neck, a man on horseback left Charlestown at full gallop and did not draw rein until he clattered into the little village of Lexington, where he stopped in front of a small house inhabited by the clergyman of the hamlet, and asked for Mr. Hancock, the question being addressed to some patriots armed with firelocks who came out of the shadow of the house—for the moon was shining—to meet him.

Their reply to the horseman was unceremonious; they were there to guard

Adams and Hancock, who were in bed and asleep; orders were that no noise was to be made to wake them.

"Noise!" exclaimed Paul Revere, the horseman; "you'll have noise enough before long! The regulars are coming!"

A man had been listening at the door.

"Come in, Revere," he now said,

"we are not afraid of you."

The door was opened, and Revere saw before him a gentleman, perhaps fifty with a peculiar tremulous motion of the head—Samuel Adams. Their colloquy was brief, and Revere was then conducted to a room in which he was confronted by a tall and courtly gentleman, superbly clad, who listened in silence to his statement. Having ascertained fully the purport of the intelligence, this gen-

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE EXCHEQUER MILL.—The improvements at this mill are making better progress since the steam connection was made with the saw-mill, which can now furnish all the lumber needed. When completed, agreeably with the plans of Manager Chalmers, the Exchequer, and its appurtenances, will be one of the best reduction works of its capacity on this coast. The old roof of the main building has been removed and a new one raised which covers a greater area and gives the works a more imposing appearance. The front has been built out flush with the main road and will be finished in rustic. The foundation for a new boarding house to be erected a short distance south of the present one is nearly ready for the contractors to commence the erection of the building, which is to be large and commodious. A large stable to accommodate twenty-five, or more, horses, is to be erected just south of the new blacksmith shop. The road will be turned and carried to the rear of the present stable and above the blacksmith shop. The saw-mill is now quite complete in its appointments, running a Huntington shingle machine, and a planing, tongue and grooving and molding machine. There are very few—if any—companies having greater facilities for carrying on mining operations. The Exchequer Company have a large timber tract, and all the timber required for mining and building purposes is turned out at their own mill, the teams carrying timber to the mine and returning with ore.

NEW COMPANY.—The Washington G. & S. Mining Company of Alpine county has been formed here, and next week the certificates of incorporation will be filed in the offices of the County Clerk and Secretary of State. Its capital stock is $10,000,000 in 100,000 shares of $100 each. The first Directors are Geo. McClay, N. D. Arnot Jr., Erich Prager, James Somerville, John Pearson, and David Dewar, of Silver Mountain, and David Perry, of San Francisco. Its principal place of business is at Silver Mountain. This Company has been organized for general mining purposes, but more particularly to work the old Washington claim on the Mountain ledge. This is one of the most promising mines in the Silver Mountain District, and we are pleased to notice a movement toward its development.

A WORTHY EXHIBITION.—On the evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday last the citizens of this town were given an opportunity to witness Professor Harman's exhibit in egerdenain and natural ventriloquism, in both of which he acquitted himself creditably. His sleight of hand equalled any exhibit in that line by Professors Anderson, Herman, Jacobs and others we have witnessed, and showed him to be a first class performer. We regret that the attendance was not equal to his merits. He had a good house at Monitor and Markleville.

CHRISTMAS TREE.—The attention of our Alpine readers is called to the advertisement of the Christmas Tree Festival to be given at Markleville on Christmas night. Our Markleville friends extend a cordial invitation to citizens of the county to unite with them in their festivities.

HOUSE WARMING.—As Contractor Arnot expects to have the I. & L. Mill finished by Christmas it is intimated that there may be a house warming on Christmas night in honor of its completion.

TO TEACHERS.—The quarterly examination will begin on Wednesday next, continuing till Friday, inclusive. Those wishing to teach our children will make a note of this.

LOOK OUT.—All persons indebted to the Estate of John A. Thompson, deceased, will find in another column an advertisement that may be of interest to them.

THANKSGIVING.—This day was one of the finest of the year, but, with the exception of the usual turkey dinners, the day passed without any particular observance.

ON DUE.—That Cupid has been sauntering through Alpine, and the result of his wanderings will be a couple of weddings at no distant day.

COLD.—We are now having clear, cold nights—such as tend to diminish our wood piles.

The Secretary of State Canvassed the vote of the State for Electors on Monday, and found that the Republicans had a majority of 2769.

It is said that Tweed is now crushed and broken, and has lost his old buoyancy of spirit.

Page's majority in the Second District is 4,899, and his total vote 28,815.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has decided in the case of Butte City, Montana, that patents may issue for town sites in mineral regions, but as all valid mining claims and possessions are by law excluded from the operation of patents, the title to them remains in the United States after a town site patent has been issued; that title to mining claims can only be acquired under the Mining Act, and that patents may issue for mining claims situated within exterior boundaries of a town site entry or patent. The decision reverses the decision previously rendered by the General Land Office that placer mining claims could not be included within the exterior boundaries of a town site patent.

NEW PATENTS.—Through dispatches of Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, United States Patents granted to Pacific inventors on this Coast, viz:

William Hutchings, Fresno, Cal., feelers for threshing machines; William Lundberg and Daniel F. Leahy, Portland, Ogn., electric signaling apparatus and key; Lewis Stoner, Virginia City, Nev., ore concentrators; George W. Tarleton, San Jose, Cal., knives for pitting fruit; John B. Forbes, Olympia, W. T., stump pullers; Robert H. Lucas, S. F., process and apparatus for deliquating and refrigerating air; Barnes M. Whiting, Los Angeles, Cal., cash balances; William M. Blain, Salinas City, Cal., gag-runners for barbers; James W. Donaldson and Allen C. Miller, Fairfield, Cal., spark extinguishers; Benjamin F. Hardy and Victoria A. Hardy, S. F., napkin holders.

It is said that R. B. Woodward proposes to remove his gardens from San Francisco to Berkeley. The scheme on foot in the Board of Supervisors to open a new street through the present location of his gardens at Mission and Fifteenth streets has impelled him to remove them.

Two gentlemen at a ball at Brown's Flat, one evening last week, cut their throats, one by showing the other how close he could draw a knife across his throat without cutting it, the second by explaining to a third party the manner in which number one had carved himself.

It turns out that no Electors were voted for in Kentucky. The vote was vice versa, and Tilden and Hendricks, and Hayes and Wheeler were the only persons voted for. The names of the Electors were not printed and not one man in a thousand knew who they were.

James Gallagher, a miner, was found dead in the Yellow Jacket incline on last Wednesday morning. He was leaning on his arm as if asleep, and is supposed to have been exhausted by the heat which stood at 130°.

H. C. Bennet, the ex-Pension Agent, in the United States District Court, San Francisco, has plead not guilty to an indictment charging him with embezzling public money and converting it to his own use.

Dr. A. J. Glover, Supervisor of Elections at Swan Quates, Hyde county, North Carolina was murdered November 6th with the Republican tickets for that county in his possession. The tickets were never found.

Chief Justice Shaffer of Utah has decided that foreign born women cannot vote on the strength of their husband's naturalization, the Territorial law to the contrary notwithstanding.

The German military band, under Carl Beck, have had a most successful engagement at Denver. They have been to the Centennial and are going to San Francisco.

Fete McCartney, the notorious counterfeiter, has been sentenced by the United States Court in Indianapolis to fifteen years in the penitentiary, and his associate (Walter) to ten years.

Six criminals were whipped and exposed in pillory at Newcastle, Delaware, on Saturday. They received from twenty to forty lashes.

O'Donovan Rossa has now collected $20,558 for his secret assault on England, but dread of the impending blow is not apparent across the water.

Mrs. Ross Hardin, aged 95, said to be the first woman born in Kentucky, is dead.

The four miles and repeat race of the Bay District Association for $5,000 will come off on December 30th, good day and track.

A telegraph line is to be laid between San Diego and China, via Honolulu, Brain Islands and Japan.

President MacMahon has contributed 3,000 francs in aid of the sufferers by the late fire at St. Hyacinthe.

The statue of Daniel Webster was unveiled in New York City on Saturday in presence of a vast assemblage.

It is proposed to supply New York city with water from the Hudson river taken above the salt water flow.

The Russian Mediterranean squadron has been ordered to America.

ASKING TOO MUCH.—Yesterday a prisoner, unrepresented by counsel, was in the dock charged with a misdemeanor. After the complaining witness had given his testimony, the Judge asked the prisoner if he wished to question the witness.

"What shall I ask him?" inquired the prisoner.

"You may ask anything you like."

"Then, with your Honor's permission," said the prisoner, "I will ask the witness to lend me five dollars."

The Court found it necessary to explain to the prisoner that he could only ask the witness questions bearing on the testimony he had just given.—Call.

GRAND TRIUMPH FOR

WEBER

Pianos!

First Premium over all American and Foreign Manufacturers.

Copy of a Telegram received by Sherman & Hyde:

New York, Sept. 29th, 1876—Received the highest award for sym-phetic, pure, and rich tone, combined with greatest power, as shown in the three styles—Grand, Square, and Upright Pianos—which show intelligence and solidity in their construction, a pliant and easy touch, which at the same time answers promptly to its requirements, together with excellence of workmanship.

A. WEBER.

Never before in the history of piano manufacture has an instrument risen so rapidly in popular favor.

Its intrinsic merit and decided superiority over all others has caused every musician and artist of note to adopt and recommend it.

Nilsson says, "I shall take every opportunity to recommend and praise your instruments."

Miss Kellogg says, "Your Pianos are my choice for the concert room and my own house."

Lucas says, "Your uprights are extraordinary instruments, and deserve their great popularity."

Patil says, "I have used the Pianos of every celebrated maker, but give yours the preference over all."

Strauss says, "Your Pianos astonish me. I have never seen any Pianos which equal yours."

Wehl says, "Madame Parpa, called your Pianos the finest in the United States. I fully endorse that opinion. They have no rival."
